Club licensing is next!

We are starting a new page in history with this 51st final of the Orange CAF Champions League, mother of our interclub competitions, which was known in its early beginnings as the African Cup of Champions Clubs.

Considering the poster of last year's final, we may have the feeling that things are the same, and that there is a polarity of excellence in this competition. The finalists are different no doubt, but they still come from the Democratic Republic of Congo and Algeria.

ES Setif, last year's winners at the expense of AS Vita Club, are replaced by Union Sportive Medina of Algiers (USMA) and Tout-Puissant Mazembe for the latter.

While the goal of Mazembe, which started marking its legendary prints since the late 1960s, would be to grab a fifth title, the Algerians would be attempting to inscribe their name on the trophy for the first time. Also in focus for both clubs is a ticket to participate at the FIFA Clubs World Cup in December in Japan, meant for the winner.

Apparently, the performance of the two finalists depends on the quality of the players, the tactical ability of the coaches, and to the results achieved on the ground. But it should truly be acknowledged that these results are only the end product of efficient planning, proper organisation and adequate mobilisation of human as well as material resources.

This fixture, unforeseen for the final, compensates the regularity of these two clubs since February, and the beginning of this competition, with the outcome due to be known at the TP Mazembe Stadium in Lubumbashi on Sunday, 8 November 2015. A stadium which, coupled with its baptismal name, is a part of the club's assets. This no doubt reflects the vision of a leadership that has understood the spontaneous generation that lived.

Our commitment is to do nothing on the models of the finalists of the CAF Champions League this year, left alone on the African continent. The intensification of our programme to issue licenses to clubs, with the putting in place of panels of experts and the ongoing organisation of seminars in every CAF member association, marks an important phase in adapting our environments to norms accepted by FIFA and practiced in other places.

The signing of a new contract for the commercialisation of TV rights and the marketing of our competitions, among which is the CAF Champions League, for the 2017-2028 period, guarantees better economic perspectives and substantial additional resources for clubs that will participate in CAF competitions.

But at the end, these clubs will have to have a licence, proof of abiding to some minimal terms of reference from an administrative, technical and infrastructural perspective. This should lead to a potential development, in every respect, of the CAF Champions League we hope, accompanying new partners and sponsors, without whom our vision will hardly materialize.

Previous Clubs: Vitrolles (France), Consolat Marseille (France), Al Ettifaq (Saudi Arabia)

The Franco-born Algeria has earned continental fame following his exploits with USM Alger this term. The 44-year old launched his coaching career with France amateur side, Vitrolles in 2004, before enjoying a two-year spell with Consolat Marseille between 2007 and 2009. He was appointed Youth Team coach of Saudi side Al Ettifaq in July 2012, a position he held prior to joining the technical team of USM Alger early July. Relatively unknown, his Midas Touch saw the Algiers-based club enjoy a five-match winning spree at the group phase, and qualifying for the semis after four matches.

Previous Clubs: AS Cannes (France), Dijon (France), Mali

Carteron has been at the helm of TP Mazembe since May 2013, with modest successes to show during that period. Despite stamping dominance on the domestic scene, the Frenchman has failed to guide 'Les Corbeaux' to glitter on the continental level. Mazembe were losing finalists in the Orange CAF Confederation Cup in 2013, allowing the title to slip through their grip on home soil against CS Sfaxien. In 2014, the DR Congo big spenders could only manage a semi-final placing at the biggest stage in continental club football, CAF Champions League. This season, after a patchy start, Carteron has guided the Lubumbashi to the final for the first time since 2010 and seventh overall. Prior to joining Mazembe, the 45-year old steered Mali to a bronze finish at the 2013 Orange Africa Cup of Nations in South Africa. His CV also include spells with French sides, AS Cannes and Dijon. .
